MR. MONEY SWORN IN

Credentials Are Irregular, but His Selection Is Notorious.

ROUTINE IN BOTH HOUSES

Bills Introduced and the Work of Lawmaking Begins—Many Measures of Local Interest Proposed in the House—Mr. Rixey Wants the Government to Be a Farmer.

No man ever before came to the Senate of the United States with such credentials as were presented yesterday by Senator-elect Money. He was appointed by the governor to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator George. When the governor sought to make the appointment he was away from the capital and quarantined on account of the yellow fever. Writing to his secretary for a blank commission, he was sent one such as were used in the appointment of constables and that sort of thing. It designated Mr. Money to act as Senator at the pleasure of the governor or until his appointment was revoked. This was clearly irregular and Mr. Money and the governor decided that it was before Mr. Money started for Washington, but the governor thought the Senate would know his intentions and let it stand. Discussing the matter with a member of the Committee on Privileges and Elections the other day that member told Mr. Money that he could hardly be seated on such credentials, but that he might on the authority of his appointment.

So it happened that when the credentials were laid before the Senate yesterday Mr. Chandler objected to them, on the grounds of their irregularity, and he was sustained by Mr. Hoar. The other side of the case was taken by Senator Wallbridge and Teller, and after a debate that was quite breezy, but not very serious, Mr. Money was sworn in, and given a seat on a back row.

Then came the usual flow of petitions, bills and resolutions, and the Senate adjourned for the day.

Mr. Lodge made an ineffectual endeavor to have the immigration bill fixed as the unfinished business, and finally gave up the idea that he should move to do this at today's session.

At 3:30 the Senate adjourned until today.

MANY MEASURES PROPOSED.

Usual Shower of Bills at the Second Day's Session.

Among the many bills introduced in the House were the following:

Mr. Fitzgerald—To appropriate $100,000 for the purpose of converting the old Senate Chamber into a training ship.

Mr. Howe—To make Lincoln's birthday a national holiday.

Mr. Brown—To establish uniformity of proof of marriage in pension claims.

Mr. Jones—To amend the act authorizing the construction of the Panama Canal, and to amend the act authorizing the construction of the Panama Canal, and to amend the act authorizing the construction of the Panama Canal.

Mr. Richardson—To amend this charter of the Capital Traction Company of the District of Columbia, so as to authorize the company to lay down an underground electric railway, with the necessary switches and turnouts. The route to be taken is indicated.

Mr. Johnson—To increase the circulation of the United States currency.

Mr. Conner—Proposing an amendment to the Constitution respecting the admission of new States.

Mr. Hepburn—A resolution authorizing appointment of assistant clerk to Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Mr. Hull—To reorganize the line of the army.

Mr. Evans (by request)—To relieve the President from the appointment of third-class postmasters.

Mr. Rixey—To set apart a portion of the Arlington estate for experimental agricultural purposes, and to place said portion under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Agriculture and his successors in office.

The sum of $10,000 is appropriated to carry the act into effect.

Mr. Cummings—Appointing Thomas A. Cooke special messenger of the House, at $100 a month.

Mr. Capron—Making appropriation for site and pedestal for a statue of the late Major General Ambrose E. Burnside, in the city of Washington, District of Columbia.

IS IT A TRIFLE?

THAT COMMON TROUBLE, ACID DYSPEPSIA, OR SOUR STOMACH.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to promptly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, and flatulent in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic, and being an everyday occurrence is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal, many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. It is prepared by the Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectively restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time it is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary, by giving perfect digestion, strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

SUFFRAGE IN THE DISTRICT.

Its Restoration Advocated at a Mass Meeting.

The suffragists of the District opened this campaign for the restoration of the rights and privileges of the colored people to the residents of the District last evening with a rousing mass meeting at Hayden Hall, corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Four-and-a-half street. The meeting was under the auspices of the local Federation of Labor and the central committee of the Suffrage Association of Washington.

The following resolution was offered and adopted:

Resolved, That the members of the local Federation of Labor, Knights of Labor, Central Labor Union and other citizens of the District of Columbia who are here represented, wish to express the conviction that the present disfranchisement of the colored people is an American and in direct violation of all the principles on which the republic was founded and should be forthwith abolished by Congress, for the following reasons:

First—It is the most costly municipal government in the United States of civilized world.

Second—Commissioners ask for an appropriation for year ending June, 1899, $8,000,000, more than to population, which will cost $28.57 for every man, woman and child in the District.

Third—Because the present government is the worst form in the world, in that it is arbitrary and despotic, and because the present form was never intended to be permanent. And, without any fault of the residents, they are deprived of the right of ballot.

Fifth—It violates both the letter and spirit of the Constitution and Declaration of Independence.

NO CURRENCY LEGISLATION

And not resume them, except in case gold is paid into the Treasury for greenbacks and other circulating notes. In other words, $348,000,000 of greenbacks, when redeemed, must be paid into the Treasury, thereby contracting the currency to that amount, and these greenbacks being released only on condition that a like amount of gold be deposited for the greenbacks released. In either case, $348,000,000 of greenbacks would be locked up in the Treasury and permanently out of circulation.

"Fortunately for the country, however, the President hesitates to put this scheme in operation until the revenue received for the Government is sufficient to pay current expenditures, so that we may be assured that under the Dingley bill the President's plans of retiring greenbacks will be indefinitely postponed. His recommendation, that the currency be permitted to issue notes at the par value of bonds deposited and that the notes shall be made redeemable in gold will not do. If it is a great strain and burden upon the Government to maintain and redeem for $348,000,000 of greenbacks, how can the banks possibly obtain gold to redeem their notes? If all the wealth and power of the Government finds it hazardous to maintain gold redemption, how could part of that wealth be involved in banking institutions procuring gold? Banks would be forced to surrender their notes and thus work disastrous contraction of the currency. No scheme can be devised that is worse than this."

"It is not unusual for the President to alter his redemption money, the same as gold, and that our currency system can be maintained on a bimetallic basis without any forced contraction of our currency. The country, however, need take no alarm. In the Republican party find itself wholly unable to legislate upon the currency question. The Republican party in the House will not adopt the scheme of the President, nor will they give assent to the plan of the Secretary of the Treasury. The program marked out by Mr. Reed, Speaker of the House, is to do nothing on the currency question. For this, the country can be congratulated."

"No doubt this policy of doing nothing will in this session, in the last, be religiously adhered to. The Democrats warned the country in the last campaign that the Republican party would do nothing for the relief of the people in their financial affairs. This warning is coming to pass. We can assure the people, however, that the outlook for Democratic relief is bright, and the time for it to come is fast approaching."

The President's latest description upon the currency for currency reform, said Mr. Dockery, "discloses the error-prone of a gold standard. He is actually attempting to conceal the effect of the recommendation that 'United States notes be redeemed in gold' should not be paid out in exchange for gold, although it is manifest that legislation conferring upon the Secretary of the Treasury such power would result in impounding the greenbacks and other Treasury obligations, and thus further contract the volume of money in circulation. With the limited amount of gold which constitutes the only money of redemption, the Government must either retire the obligations which call for gold or else use and then borrow gold by increasing the interest-bearing debt. With a Treasury deficiency under the Dingley bill, amounting in four months to nearly fifty millions of dollars, the issuance of a bond issue to replenish the gold reserve is imminent."

The President seeks to avoid this danger by a recommendation which in effect authorizes the Treasury Department to retire a large part of our paper money. The people will not be deceived by this recommendation. It is obvious, however, that the President's logical, if not frank, in desiring to retire the Treasury obligations, which by Treasury construction, are payable in gold alone, rather than to hire more gold by another bond issue. The President's policy practically retires the greenbacks, while compensating the system of national banks. It will be disapproved by the people."

Discussing the message in general, Champ Clark, of Missouri, said yesterday: "The President's message was a disappointment to the country. The bulk of the American people are heartily in favor of straining belated rights to the struggling Cubans immediately, and of recognizing their independence at as distant day as they will wait. Kindly Mr. McKinley's suggestion of doing nothing to help them. There are two reasons for this: First, because the love of freedom is thoroughly ingrained in the American character; and lastly, because the Cuban war is causing great losses to the war of trade."

OBITUARY NOTES.

The vast majority of the people are opposed to extending and perpetuating the national banking system, which the President proposes. He suggests that their privileges and opportunities for making money be increased by 10 per cent, while their taxes are to be reduced by one-half. A tremendous revolution in public opinion must take place or the Democrats will win that proposition.

"The scheme to popularize national banks by diminishing the amount of capital necessary to establish them in small towns, would be a great thing for the Republican gold standard party if it would work, but it will not. The people are not desirous of the gold standard, and a receding star in every neighborhood."

"Or, the whole message will be a tip-top campaign document for the Democrats."

"The first and general impression about the message," said Mr. De Armond, "is that it is notably weak. But it is worse than weak—it advocates, feebly, what is wrong, and opposes, zealously, what is right. It is against the brilliant, patriotic Cuban, and for the cruel, oppressive 'helter' country. It is for the retirement of the greenbacks, the extension of national banking, the firmer fastening of the gold standard. Hostility to himself, it is thereby revealed that his own 'hopes' of an international agreement for the use of silver as a money metal. The President and his party's other leaders are trying the experiment of throwing off, little by little, the disabilities used in the campaign of '96. Enough is disclosed by this weak, un-American message to make clear to all who are not blinded by prejudice that Wall Street is forecasting pessimism its mortgage upon the present Administration."

"On the financial question," said Edgar Cochran, "the President is a mere imitator. He is following in the footsteps of Mr. Cleveland. The demand for the retirement of the greenbacks differs from Cleveland's infatuation in only one particular. It lacks the vigorous rhetoric and cogent reasoning for which Mr. Cleveland is famous. It is tame, stale, flatulent and insipid
